

FROG DOT-TO-DOT

Tom spotted a green tree frog in his backyard. He wanted to pick it up but he recalled what his best friend, Suyin, had told him. Suyin recently built a frog pond in her garden. As part of her research, Suyin discovered that frogs breathe through their skins. She told Tom that frogs absorb practically everything through their skin. Salts, oils and lotions on our hands can irritate a frogs skin. You can even accidentally pass the deadly chytrid fungus to frogs by touching them. Tom decided not to touch the frog and instead he quietly recorded a video of the green tree frog to share with Suyin.

